Containing the lateſt Advices foreign and domeſtic.

THURSDAY, March 18, 1762.

LONDON, December 8.

WE have the following Particulars of the Life, and melancholy Death of Miſs Knox, from undoubted Authority, as the Facts were taken from the Examinations before a Magiſtrate.

Miſs Mary Anne Knox (the unhappy Victim to the Love and Deſpair of a young Gentleman) was the only Daughter of Mr. Andrew Knox, of the County of Derry, in Ireland, a Gentleman of large Fortune, and Member of the laſt and preſent Parliament there. Nature (to her Misfortune) had eminently endowed her with amiable Qualities of Mind, and Beauty of Perſon, ſufficient to engage the Attention of every one who ſaw her, and the Affections of every one who knew her.

Mr. M'Knaton, of an ancient Family in the Neighbourhood, and Fortune not inconſiderable in that Country, conceived a Paſſion for her, that nothing, as appeared in the Event, but Death or Poſſeſſion could ſatisfy. Tho' his Fortune was not equal to what the Lady might have expected from her own Merit, as well as from her Father's Circumſtances, yet M'Knaton's Application to have her in Marriage, had probably been well received, but for his incurable Attachment to exceſſive Gaming; which might quickly have diſſipated (or reduced her to Want) her preſent large Fortune, as well as a much larger in Contingency. Mr. Knox, otherwiſe, might have been prevailed on to conſent, as the young Gentleman (this fatal Paſſion for Play excepted) was then, tho' very bad ſince, not only without Objection, but more than ordinarily agreeable to his Acquaintance, of every Rank and Condition: But that Objection juſtly weighed more in the Scale of Prudence, than all his good Qualities could ballance, if indeed any good Qualities can avail, where that Paſſion is predominant.

His Propoſal was abſolutely rejected, and on his continuing to addreſs her, all Intercourſe with the Family was forbidden him.

He did not, however, ceaſe to purſue the young Lady's Affections, but uſed every Art to have Acceſs to her, unobſerved by the Family, that the Ardency of his Paſſion could ſuggeſt. At every Rendezvous for Summer Amuſement, he was ever near her in Diſguiſe, and, in Dublin, found Means to ſee her with leſs Difficulty, till he had ſo far gained on her Affections, that ſhe contracted herſelf to him, in the Preſence of one Witneſs only, or rather married him; for they each read over the Form of Matrimony and ſigned interchangeable Duplicates to witneſs it; their Deſign was, in Appearance, to conceal their Engagement till a Time of Reconcilement with her Father, ſhould offer, or his Deceaſe leave her at Liberty to avow the Choice ſhe had made.

But the young Gentleman's Joy was too full to be confined; he could not conceal it from his more intimate Acquaintances, and the Secret was ſoon divulged. A Proceſs in the Commons, to diſſolve the Contract, was inſtituted, and finally determined, laſt April, by the Court of Delegates, the dernier Reſort in that Kingdom, and the Contract ſet aſide.

From that Time, M'Knaton ſeem'd to have been actuated by a Madneſs mixed with Deſpair: He declared, in all Companies, he would yet have her or die, and leave nothing unattempted, to repoſſeſs his Wife (as he perſevered to call her) tho' certain Death ſhould await him.

On the 12th Day of November, Mr. Knox, with the young Lady and her Mother, ſet out in a Coach for Dublin, with only their ordinary Attendance, and a Caſe of Piſtols in the Coach, and a Servant armed with a Blunderbuſs near. He had not proceeded far when M'Knaton, with three others in Arms, appeared, and ordered the Coachman to ſtop. Mr. Knox, on M'Knaton's coming up to the Coach Window, ſnapped his Piſtol at him, which M'Knaton anſwered by a random Fire into the Coach, and killed the young Lady. At the ſame Inſtant Knox fired his other Piſtol, and ſhot M'Knaton thro' the Breaſt, who, we hear, is ſince dead of his Wound.

Thus ended the Lives of two Perſons, brought by ill Conduct, to this unhappy Iſſue; one, who thro' Life was beloved and eſteemed by all; the other, well regarded, till by a Train of diſhonourable Actions, conſequent on a Fortune conſumed by Gaming, and a Mind made deſperate by a Conſciouſneſs of Guilt, he had juſtly brought himſelf to Contempt and Shame; and thus may it happen to any one who permits himſelf to proceed from one Step to another in the ſame Tracks of Evil. Nemo repente fuit turpiſſimus. And tho' the young Lady is not altogether excuſeable, yet we cannot but lament her. Had the other's Ruin been ſingle, it had been leſs regretted; but when we ſee ſo much Worth and Beauty involved with it, every Heart muſt be touched with Pity, and every well turned Mind alarmed at the Conſequences of indulging too much to Paſſions, which, tho' they may be ſometimes innocent, are often fatal.

Dublin, Nov. 24. A Proclamation is iſſued, offering a Reward of 500 l. for apprehending each of the Perſons that were aiding and aſſiſting M'Knaton, when he murdered Miſs Knox, on the 10th Inſtant.

LONDON, December 8.

Yeſterday arrived at the Bank, two Waggons with Money, which the Aſſiſtance Man of War brought from Virginia, on Account of the Merchants of this City.

CHARLES-TOWN (South-Carolina) January 27.

THE Maſter of a Schooner from Jamaica for Philadelphia, who put in here for Neceſſaries laſt Friday, put into the Havannah in Diſtreſs about three Weeks before, where he had a Guard of Soldiers put on board his Veſſel, and was ordered to depart in about eighteen Hours, with only one Caſk of Water, and a few Yams, &c. A French Privateer was then in the Harbour, and treated with all Indulgence. The Spaniards ſaid they had eleven Men of War there: He ſaw ſeven of the Line, all rigged; but believes they were not manned.

January 30. Capt. William Thompſon, who arrived on Thurſday Evening in Rebellion Road from Cadiz, and is juſt come up to Town, gives us the following extraordinary Piece of Intelligence, viz. That on the 14th of laſt Month, being at an Engliſh Houſe in Cadiz, and Poſt-Day, he heard a Letter was juſt come to the Conſul from the Earl of Briſtol, the Britiſh Ambaſſador at Madrid, acquainting him, "That a Rupture "between the Courts of Spain and Great-Britain "was unavoidable; that he expected War would "be declared, on their Part, in two Days; and "adviſing, that he would give Notice thereof to "all the Britiſh Subjects, Merchants, and Maſters "of Veſſels, that they might depart the Kingdom "forthwith." That upon hearing this, he went on board the Favourite Man of War, to enquire into the Truth of what he had heard; that the Captain was gone to the Conſul's, at Port St. Mary's, but the Lieutenant aſſured him it was Fact, as he did other Maſters of Veſſels: That thereupon People were hired to get all the Britiſh Veſſels in Readineſs to ſail early the next Morning, the 15th; when the Favourite made a Signal, altho' the Wind blew very freſh into the Bay, for all ſuch Veſſels to cut or ſlip, and make the beſt of their Way to Sea, which they accordingly did, ſome without having landed half their Cargoes, and all, except our Informant, who made directly for this Port, and a Snow belonging to New-York, one Patterſon Maſter, who could not get out, proceeded with the Favourite and Gramont to Gibraltar. Capt. Thompſon adds, that when he left the Bay of Cadiz, 7 Sail of Spaniſh Ships of the Line, and a Frigate, were there, all rigged, and their Sails bent, ready to put to Sea, but that they were very ill manned.

A late Letter from the Weſt-Indies, ſays, "Our Fleet is before Martinico: The French Inhabitants are entrenching themſelves in the Mountains, and other moſt inacceſſible Places. Every Thing has been done by them to make the Siege a long one; but we know all their Motions, by the Channel of St. Euſtatius, &c."

Our laſt Letters from Providence, dated the 15th Inſtant, mention a Report, that ſeven large Spaniſh Ships of the Line are ſailed from the Havanna for Martinico.

Feb. 3. It is ſaid the new French Governor of Martinico was arrived, and ſeemed not much pleaſed with the State wherein he found the Iſland, notwithſtanding the gaſconading Accounts publiſhed by the French, of their Preparations againſt an Attack.

Yeſterday the Sloop Wolf, Captain Lawrence, from St. Auguſtine for New-York, put in here to repair ſome Damage ſhe had received on Friday laſt in a hard Gale from W. N. W. which waſhed the Caboose overboard, carried away the Jib-boom, ſprung her Boltſprit, and did other Damage. Don Lucas Palacio, late Governor of St. Auguſtine, died there ſuddenly about the Beginning of December laſt, and Don Alonzo de Cardenas S. Mayore has taken upon him the Government, till his Catholic Majeſty's Pleaſure be known.

Feb. 13. On Sunday laſt arrived here Captain Gilcriſt from Barbados, who informs us, that 21 Days before, he paſſed through Part of Admiral Rodney's Squadron, lying in a Bay about five Leagues to Windward of Fort Royal Harbour, in Martinico, where there is a Settlement of about 36 Houſes, and ſo near the Shore that he could ſee the People at their Doors, and hear our Drums beat: That as he paſſed by that Place one of the Men of War's Boats boarded him, the Officer in which told him, that 13 Ships of the Line were then under Orders to enter the Harbour and attack Fort Royal by Sea, at the ſame Time that the Army ſhould come before it on the Land Side.

Our Letters from Barbados by Capt. Gilcriſt, ſay, that the Expedition Fleet, when it ſailed from thence, conſiſted of 173 Sail: That all the Ports and Bays in Martinico had been ſo cloſely blocked up by Frigates, armed Veſſels, and a few large Ships, from the Beginning of November, that it was ſcarce poſſible for any Thing to get in or out. That the Force employed on this Expedition, conſiſted of 17 Ships of the Line, 16 Frigates, 3 Sloops, 3 Bombs, 5 Tenders, and 14 other armed Veſſels, mounting 1832 Guns, and carrying 12,997 Men; and 16,758 Land Forces, including the Troops raiſed in the Iſlands, 1668 Marines; with the Remainder of the Queen's Regiment of Volunteers, expected from England, and 1000 Men expected from hence with Col. Grant.—The Troops from Belleiſle were only 2275 Men; and of the Queen's Regiment of Volunteers, only 200 had as yet arrived at Barbados.

Feb. 17. All Accounts from the South and Weſt agree, that the ſeveral Indian Nations continue well affected to the Britiſh Intereſt. The Creek Indians carry on the Scalping War againſt the Spaniards with much Inveteracy.

February 20.

Extract of a Letter from Cape-Fear, dated the 15th Inſtant.

"Capt. Foſter, in the Snow Vaughan, is juſt arrived from Barbados, and paſſed cloſe by our Fleet, at Anchor about 4 Miles from Fort Royal in Martinico, and ſays, he thought he perceived Engliſh Colours on a ſmall Fort near where the Fleet lay: That our Forces at firſt landed about two Leagues to Windward, at a Place called Trois-Rivieres, but finding it almoſt impracticable to draw the Cannon over the Mountains and through other Obſtructions, they had been re-embarked and put aſhore where he ſaw the Fleet: He adds, that he obſerved 4 of our Men of War coming out of Fort Royal Harbour, where he judged they had been to reconnoitre, and at the ſame Time, others getting under Sail from the Fleet, which he imagines were going in, to begin the Attack of that Place the next Morning."

From the ANTIGUA GAZETTE.

Antigua, Jan. 27. On Saturday laſt arrived here in two Days from Martinico, Capts. Leaycroft and Baſſet, by whom we have the following Intelligence, viz. That our Troops had encamped about 7 Miles from Point Negro, and had erected three grand Batteries, which would be opened againſt the Enemy on Saturday: That our Indians and Light Infantry have had ſeveral Skirmiſhes with the Enemy, in each of which they had been victorious, and had taken ſeveral Priſoners: That our Loſs in Killed and Wounded ſince our firſt Landing does not exceed 30, and that of the Enemy about 500: That the French General had given a Reward of two Moidores for every Leg, Arm, or Head, brought into his Camp, which has exaſperated our Soldiers and Indians ſo much, that they have ſent in a Number of the French Negroes ſcalped to their General: That our People were all well, and in high Spirits, and made no Doubt of an eaſy Conqueſt.

By his Majeſty's Brig Antigua, which arrived at Engliſh Harbour on Saturday laſt from Guadaloupe, we have been favoured with the following Manifeſto, which was found on board a Spaniſh Snow carried in there.

"Madrid, December 15, 1761.

"SINCE the Commencement of the War between France and England, the Court of Spain has endeavoured to accommodate Matters between them, but the Britiſh Court being ambitious, would not hear of an Accommodation, and ſtill goes on in her Encroachments on the French Weſt-India Settlements; and not being ſatisfied with thoſe Conqueſts, has alſo taken Poſſeſſion of ſome Part of the Spaniſh Main, in order to ſecure the whole Trade to themſelves; and in order to accommodate Matters, the Court of Spain had lately propoſed a new Plan of Pacification between the Two Crowns, which was communicated to the Earl of Briſtol, who immediately aſked, Whether his Catholic Majeſty intended to ſide with France or not, and demanded a categorical Anſwer; which, if he was refuſed ſuch Anſwer, he would look on the ſame as a Declaration of War, and return to England. Upon which his Catholic Majeſty told him, That he might return to England when he pleaſed, and as the Engliſh have been the firſt Aggreſſors, he would take Care to order his Ambaſſador from England immediately, and look on the Engliſh as Enemies to Spain; and therefore forbid all his Subjects from holding a Correſpondence with them, but to diſtreſs them to the utmoſt of their Power. He farther deſires, that this Inſtrument be publiſhed throughout his Dominions, being conſcious he had juſt Cauſe for ſo doing."

BOSTON, February 25.

We hear that Orders are come over to the ſeveral Governors on the Continent, for raiſing the like Numbers of Men raiſed by them laſt Year, and under the like Encouragement of a Compenſation. Which Men are to ſerve under his Majeſty's General and Commander in Chief here, while the Regular Troops are employed in ſome important Service aboard.

NEWPORT, in RHODE-ISLAND, February 23.

On Thurſday Night laſt, about Ten o'clock, the Inhabitants of this Town were alarmed by the Cry of Fire, which proved to be in a Store on the Long Wharff, in which, and Three Stores adjoining, were depoſited a Quantity of Weſt-India and other Goods, to the Amount of Eight Thouſand Pounds Lawful Money: Theſe, before the Fire could be extinguiſhed, were all conſumed. Two Brigs would probably have ſhared the ſame Fate, had not their Maſts been immediately cut away. It happened providentially, that all the Houſes were covered with Snow, otherwiſe the whole Place might have been laid in Aſhes, as the Wind was weſterly, which blew directly upon the Town, and carried with it large Flakes of Fire, which flew to a great Diſtance. This was no Accident, but perpetrated by an abandoned Negro, who is now confined in his Majeſty's Goal in this Town, waiting the Demerits of his Crime.

NEW-YORK, March 3.

Some evil minded Perſon or Perſons, whether white or black is uncertain, a few Nights ago made a Preparation at the Back of a Houſe in Broad-ſtreet, for the ſetting the Neighbourhood on Fire; but as it was happily diſcovered before their Deſign was executed, a Watch has been kept for ſeveral Nights paſt near the Place, and it is not doubted but the Contrivers will be come at ſhortly. Their Preparation was of a vaſtly dry Subſtance, which would readily kindle; and ſuſpended in ſuch a Manner, that it would have been a Miracle if the Houſe had not been in Flames in an Inſtant.

We are credibly informed, that a ſmart Shock of an Earthquake was felt, about four o'Clock, in the Morning of the 21ſt ult. at Middletown and Woodbridge (New-Jerſey) and other Parts adjacent.

March 8. Yeſterday Morning Col. PETER SCHUYLER departed this Life, at his Seat at Newark, in Eaſt New-Jerſey, greatly and juſtly lamented. He did Honour to his Country, and gave a noble Example to others: And it will be allowed by all who knew him, that he was a ſincere Friend, humane, beneficent, and juſt, to all Mankind.

The ſharp and very ſevere Weather which we have had only a few Days paſt, occaſioned more Ice in our Rivers and Bay than we have had the whole Seaſon before, which interrupts our Navigation conſiderably; but as the Weather now moderates, we are in Hopes the ſeveral Veſſels ready to ſail, will ſoon put to Sea for their reſpective Ports.

Such various Attempts to rob, and ſo many Robberies actually committed, having of late been very frequent within the Circuits of this City, both Day and Night; it is become hazardous for any Perſon to walk in the latter without being well provided; and the Doors of Dwelling-Houſes well ſecured.

The Store of Abraham Schenk, Eſq; on Moore's Wharff, was, on Saturday Night laſt, broke open, and robbed of a Box or Trunk, containing Things of Value. The Thief had ſecreted himſelf in the Houſe, and while the Store-keeper was abſent on Buſineſs about ſeven o'Clock he took the Opportunity to execute his Deſign.

A Boat was attempted to be robbed laſt Night, but the Fellow was nabbed, and properly taken Care of.

The ingenious Doctor Elliott, of Killingſworth in Connecticut, has wrote a Treatiſe on the making of Iron from Sea Sand, a moſt curious and uſeful Diſcovery. The Iron proves to be of the beſt and pureſt Kind.

PHILADELPHIA, February 25.

We are ſorry to be obliged to acquaint our Readers, that by a Sloop arrived from Antigua, and Capt. Rees from Barbados, ſince our laſt, there is but too much Reaſon to believe that the great News we, with ſo much Pleaſure, gave them, relating to the Victory of the King of Pruſſia over Marſhal Daun's Army, was not ſo well founded as might have been expected.

By Captain White from Barbados, we have the following Advices relating to our Army at Martinico, &c.

Extract of a Letter from Barbados, January 28, 1762.

"In regard to Martinico, we had an Expreſs from thence laſt Night, which left it on Sunday Evening, and brought us the following Intelligence, viz. That Col. Haviland was ordered with 4000 Men to attack ſix Redoubts, which ſuccoured Fort Royal and Capuchin Hill, where there was a French Camp, in which it was thought there was Half of the French Army: That they began the Attack about Eleven o'Clock, on Sunday the 24th Inſtant, and took five of the Redoubts with little or no Loſs; but on attacking the ſixth Redoubt, in which the Regulars were, the Engagement was ſo obſtinate, that Colonel Haviland was obliged to ſend for a Reinforcement, and as ſoon as that came, he attacked them Sword in Hand, Killed a Number of them, made 1300 Priſoners, and the reſt fled. Among the Priſoners is the French General's Brother, and ſeveral Officers of Diſtinction. They are now in Poſſeſſion of Capuchin Hill, about a Mile from Fort-Royal, which the General expects to have in a few Days. It is thought we loſt a great many Men at the Taking of the laſt Redoubt.

"I make no Doubt, by the Time this reaches, you will hear of a Spaniſh War, as ſuch News has come up from our Army, which they had via Liſbon."

In another Letter from Barbados, of the ſame Date, there is the following Paragraph.

"By a Veſſel from the Mediterranean, arrived at Guadaloupe, we learn that the Spaniards have ſtopt all the Engliſh Veſſels in their Ports, and have ordered Home the Earl of Briſtol, with a Manifeſto to His Majeſty—A Spaniſh War will follow—Dependance may be had on this—PITT muſt have foreſeen it, and the People of England will lament, that the Meaſures he propoſed met with ſo ſtrong Oppoſition."

And in a third Letter from the ſame Place, and of the ſame Date, it is ſaid:

"We have an Account from St. Euſtatius, that ſix Sail of Spaniſh Men of War are arrived at the Margaretta's, which bring Advice, that the Spaniſh Ambaſſador was called Home from the Engliſh Court; and that the Britiſh Veſſels at Cadiz had been detained, upon the Earl of Briſtol's being ordered to England from the Court of Spain."

There are other Letters, in which mention is made both of the Succeſs of our Army, and the Likelihood of a Spaniſh War; but as the Subſtance is much the ſame, we think it needleſs to inſert them.

Our Army, we learn, is very healthy, and in high Spirits, and it is ſaid did not loſe a Man in Landing; but that the Ships had about Twenty killed and wounded.

The brave General MONCKTON, we hear, was ſo well pleaſed with the Behaviour of his gallant Men, in attacking and carrying the Redoubts abovementioned (in which there was ſeemingly unſurmountable Difficulties) that he wrote to Admiral RODNEY, That none but ENGLISH Troops could have taken, nor none but Frenchmen would have left, ſuch ſtrong Poſts.

ANNAPOLIS, March 18.

The Weather proving very unfavourable, there did not come to Town a ſufficient Number of the Gentlemen of the General Aſſembly, on Monday, to compoſe a Houſe, and his Excellency our Governor Prorogued it to next Day; and for the ſame Reaſon, then Prorogued it to Wedneſday.

Yeſterday the General Aſſembly met, and unanimouſly choſe the Hon. HENRY HOOPER, Eſq; (their former Speaker) a Repreſentative for Dorcheſter, to be their Speaker; and Mr. John Allen Thomas, to be their Clerk: Of both which Elections his Excellency the Governor was pleaſed to give his Approbation; and Open'd the Seſſion with the following SPEECH:

Gentlemen of the Upper and Lower Houſes of Aſſembly,

YOU are at this Time convened in Obedience to his Majeſty's Commands, ſignified to me by the Right Honourable the Earl of EGREMONT, one of his Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State, and his Excellency Sir JEFFERY AMHERST, by whoſe Letters you will find, that the King, our moſt Gracious Sovereign, having ſeen his good Diſpoſition and Endeavours to reſtore the Public Tranquility, entirely fruſtrated by the Inſincerity and Chicane of the Court of Verſailles, hath reſolved to proſecute the War with the utmoſt Vigour, in Hopes of reducing the Enemy by ſuch Meaſures to the Neceſſity of accepting Peace on Terms of Glory and Advantage to his Majeſty's Crown, and permanently beneficial to his American Subjects.

Convinced that nothing can ſo effectually contribute to this great and eſſential Object, as his being enabled immediately to employ in Offenſive Operations againſt the Enemy, ſuch Part of his Regular Forces ſtill in North-America, as may be adequate to ſome great and important Enterprize, the King hath ordered the Commander in Chief of his Forces on this Continent to take Meaſures, and proceed accordingly; and that the full and entire Security, as well of his former Dominions, as of thoſe, which, in the Courſe of the War, have been acquired by Conqueſt in North-America, may, during the Abſence of ſuch Regular Forces, be effectually provided for, his Majeſty is pleaſed once more to call upon his good Subjects on this Continent for ſuch a Supply of Provincial Troops, as their Circumſtances, Situation, and Number of Inhabitants, may allow or enable the ſeveral Provinces to raiſe, cloath and pay: That the Burthen on the Colonies may be as light as poſſible, the Men will be ſupplied with Arms, Tents, and Proviſions, in the ſame Manner as are the Regular Forces; and that even the Expence of raiſing, cloathing, and paying, the Provincials required, may be leſſened, and no Encouragement be wanting to incite the Colonies to the fulleſt Exertion of their Force, his Majeſty hath been moſt graciouſly pleaſed to permit the Secretary of State to aſſure us, that ſtrong Recommendations will be made to Parliament in their Seſſion next Year, to grant a proper Compenſation for ſuch Expence, according as the active Vigour and ſtrenuous Efforts of the reſpective Provinces ſhall juſtly appear to merit.

As you, Gentlemen of the Lower Houſe, muſt be the beſt Judges of the Circumſtances of your Conſtituents, and what Number of Troops it would be poſſible to raiſe here for the Service of the enſuing Campaign, I leave that Matter entirely to your Determination; but as it is very eſſential to the Services Sir JEFFERY AMHERST hath in Command from the King, that you ſhould come to a ſpeedy Reſolution, and the General be informed what Number of Men he may expect from this Province, and when the Maryland Troops will be ready to march, I intreat you to take the Earl of EGREMONT's and his Excellency's Letters immediately into Conſideration, and with the utmoſt Diſpatch to prepare a Bill for raiſing, in the moſt expeditious Manner, the Number of Men you may agree to furniſh as the Quota of this Province.

Gentlemen,

Relying on your Deſire to preſerve this Province from the dreadful Conſequence, which the Earl of EGREMONT, by his Majeſty's expreſs Command, tells us cannot fail to attend the obſtinate Purſuit of the Meaſures, that have unhappily given Occaſion for the very ſevere Reprehenſion contained in his Letter; on your Zeal to promote the Honour, Glory and Service of a Sovereign, whoſe unwearied Application, conſtant Attention and Study, to preſerve and advance the Happineſs and Proſperity of his People, have rendered him extremely dear to all his Subjects, throughout his extenſive Dominions; on your Gratitude for the innumerable and ineſtimable Bleſſings the Inhabitants of this Province, in common with their Fellow-Subjects, enjoy under his auſpicious Reign; and, on your Wiſhes to ſee our preſent Security firmly eſtabliſhed by a ſafe and honourable Peace, for which Security we are indebted to the wiſe and vigorous Meaſures of a moſt excellent Sovereign, and the extraordinary Efforts of the Mother-Country in our Defence, at a Time when we were on the Point of falling a Prey to a barbarous Enemy: I am perſuaded it would be unneceſſary for me to urge any Arguments in Addition to what are contained in the Letters I ſhall lay before you, and flatter myſelf, that your ready Compliance with his Majeſty's Requiſitions, will, at the ſame Time it redounds to the Honour of this new Aſſembly, incline our moſt Gracious Sovereign, as well as his Miniſters, and the Commander in Chief of the King's Forces on this Continent, to entertain the moſt favourable Opinion of the Loyalty, Affection and Zeal, of the Inhabitants of Maryland.

Sunday laſt, when the Wind blew very hard, a foul Chimney, near the Town Gate, took Fire, and burnt with great Fury, and ſet Fire to an adjacent Dwelling-Houſe; but by the Aſſiduity of the Inhabitants, it was extinguiſhed without doing much Damage.

At the County Court laſt Week, in Dorcheſter County, a Negro Man was Tried and found Guilty of breaking open and robbing a Store, and was ſentenced to be Hang'd.
